This 13-year-old has high intellect for his age. Unfortunately, he is the first one to tell you that. Even if he is not a "fan" of chocolate, he liked the challenge of finding a Golden Ticket, and he accurately predicted where the next ticket could be found. "It was easy," he claims. "In the end, I only had to buy one candy bar." He is never far from his computer or his television.

Write down: What does he look like? What kind person is he? Would you like him as a friend? What is he like with his parents? What does he like doing? What happens to him in the book?
