

The Lion King

Simba is a lion cub. His father, Mufasa, is king of the Pride Lands. Mufasa's brother, Scar, wants to be the next king. He tricks Simba into going to a dangerous place outside the Pride Lands. Simba and his best friend, Nala, go to the dangerous place, an elephant graveyard. When some hyenas attack, Mufasa is there to save them.

Scar then takes Simba into a deep valley. A stampede of wildebeests is about to kill him when Mufasa again save Simba. As they escape, Scar pushes Mufasa into the stampede and Mufasa dies. Simba doesn't see this happen and he thinks he caused his father's death. Simba runs far away from the Pride Lands.

Timon (a meerkat) and Pumbaa (a warthog) become his friends. They eat fruits and bugs and enjoy life in the jungle. Years later, Nala is hunting in the jungle and finds Simba. She asks him to come back to the Pride Lands. where life is terrible now. Scar is the new king with the hyenas around him.

Simba goes back home. He finds out that Scar killed his father. Simba fights his evil uncle. Scar loses and Simba wins so he becomes the true king of the Pride Lands. Nala and Simba have a cub (a baby lion), so they complete the Circle of Life.
